The forecast for Arkansas calls for partly cloudy through Tuesday, with little change in temperatures and a chance of a few snow flurries today and tonight in the extreme North portion. High temperatures will range from 34 North to 58 South. Scattered snow flurries are expected from upper New York state down through the Ohio Valley into extreme North Arkansas and up through North Dakota. There will be little temperature change except for some moderation over the Plains and in New England.

State Case in Murder Trial Ends

By ARTHUR EVERETT

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — The state plans to rest its first-degree murder case today against blon de Candance Mossler and her strapping nephew, Melvin Lane Powers, in the 1964 slaying of her aging, multimillionaire husband, Jacques Mossler.

The defense then opens a presentation that is hand-tailored to fit the dramatic courtroom talents of Powers' chief attorney Percy Foreman, a towering, colorful Texas lawyer. His will be the final plea in the case.

With direct prosecution testimony at an end, Dade County Circuit Judge George Schulz confronted routine mid-trial defense motions — for a directed verdict of acquittal, or dismissal of charges for lack of evidence.

However, he is expected to continue the trial, now in its sixth week, with the all-male jury rendering the final judgment. The maximum penalty facing Mrs. Mossler and Powers, if convicted as charged, is death in the electric chair. The state has described them as illicit lovers, driven by lust and greed into a premeditated design to kill Mossler, 69.

Mrs. Mossler entered a local hospital during the weekend for treatment of an old neck injury, aggravated since the trial began Jan. 18 by a fall. She also is subject to graine headaches, which have interrupted the hearing on occasions.

Neither the tiny, attractive Mrs. Mossler, who lists her age as 40, nor the 6-foot-3 Powers, 29, is expected to take the witness stand. The defense estimates it will call about 25 witnesses and take a week or more to put in its case.

To take advantage of Florida law, Powers' defense team does not plan to introduce any witnesses or submit any evidence in his behalf. Actually, some of Mrs. Mossler's witnesses will be testifying for both defendants.

The poorwill, which dwells in western North America, is the only known hibernating bird.

HELEN HELP US!

— by Helen Bittel —

Dear Helen: I have written to almost all the advice columnists, both anonymously and stating my name and address. Yet no one will answer this question:

Please tell me what a husband is supposed to contribute physically, emotionally and mentally to a marriage? Surely he must have duties beyond bringing home his paycheck. I KNOW this is wonderful, but I did that for myself when I was single.

You hear so much about what a woman's role in marriage is. You can't pick up a magazine without having it drummed into you until you feel so guilty, insecure, unworthy and hopeless you'd like to wring the necks of the paragons who yap that it's 99 per cent up to the woman; implying the man just sits on his throne and laps it all up as his due.

Please don't be like the others Helen. This time answer in your column or give me a logical explanation for not answering.

No Name
Dear No Name: A "logical explanation for not answering" is easier: You want a full-length book — in 100 words or less.

But, because you've brought up question that seldom gets much consideration, I'll try the impossible.

Physically, emotionally, and mentally, man should contribute to his marriage:

LOVE: The kind of love I mean combines all three: action, words, thoughts — for one is incomplete without the others. When he kisses her she's got to know he wouldn't have life any other way — most of the time.

DEPENDABILITY: A wife needs to count on her man, though that doesn't include an accounting for every minute of his night and day.

PROTECTION: No matter how self-sufficient a woman thinks she is (and smart wives don't think so!) her strength comes from her husband. He's a shoulder to lean on, strong arms to shield her, a business head that brings logic to her female thinking. Mainly, he's THERE, and so she is never alone, even though he may be half a continent away.

HELPLESSNESS: Not the apron and mop variety but the type that gives a hand at the right moment — and without reminders (most of the time.)

HUMOR: Never underestimate the power of laughter — but his humor must be kind.
Sympathy, Empathy, Patience, Understanding, Gentleness, Praise: A man can't be expected to light up the sky here, for this is woman's department, but he can try a little harder. And he will, if his wife leads the way.

The outstanding American sire of thoroughbred race horses during the 20th century has been Bull Lea. This stallion sired more than 816 starters, who earned more than $10,500,000, an average of over $13,000 per runner per year. The greatest thoroughbred sire ever recorded was the unbeaten St. Simon, whose offspring raced in Great Britain from 1889 to 1912. Their earning power was almost five times the average expectancy.

Crossett Wins Key Game From Bobcats

By LARRY DON WRIGHT
Hope Star Sports Editor

The first place Crossett Eagles really busted things up in the third quarter to overshadow the visiting Hope Bobcats, 82-67, in a District 4AA tussle Saturday night at Crossett.

Led by the rebounding of 6'8" James Connor and the pin point shooting accuracy of Tommy Rawls the Eagles completely dominated the second half of play after two quarters of lead swapping and close scoring.

The Bobcats led most of the first period after winning a quick five point lead. But Crossett eased in front by a point just before the end of the quarter, 13-12.

The second quarter saw the Cats kept battling boldly against the mighty home five and the terrific roar of the huge partisans crowd. The Cats led as late as five minutes into the second quarter, but it was the last time Crossett took a slight half time advantage of 36-31 as Hope fell ed to produce by missing on two lay ups completing fast breaks and several free throws.

And the intermission only served to allow the Bobcats to lose their first half momentum and spunk. After three quarters the Eagles had strengthened their lead to ten, 54-44.

After that things came easily and the final period was even more humiliating for the Cats than the previous.

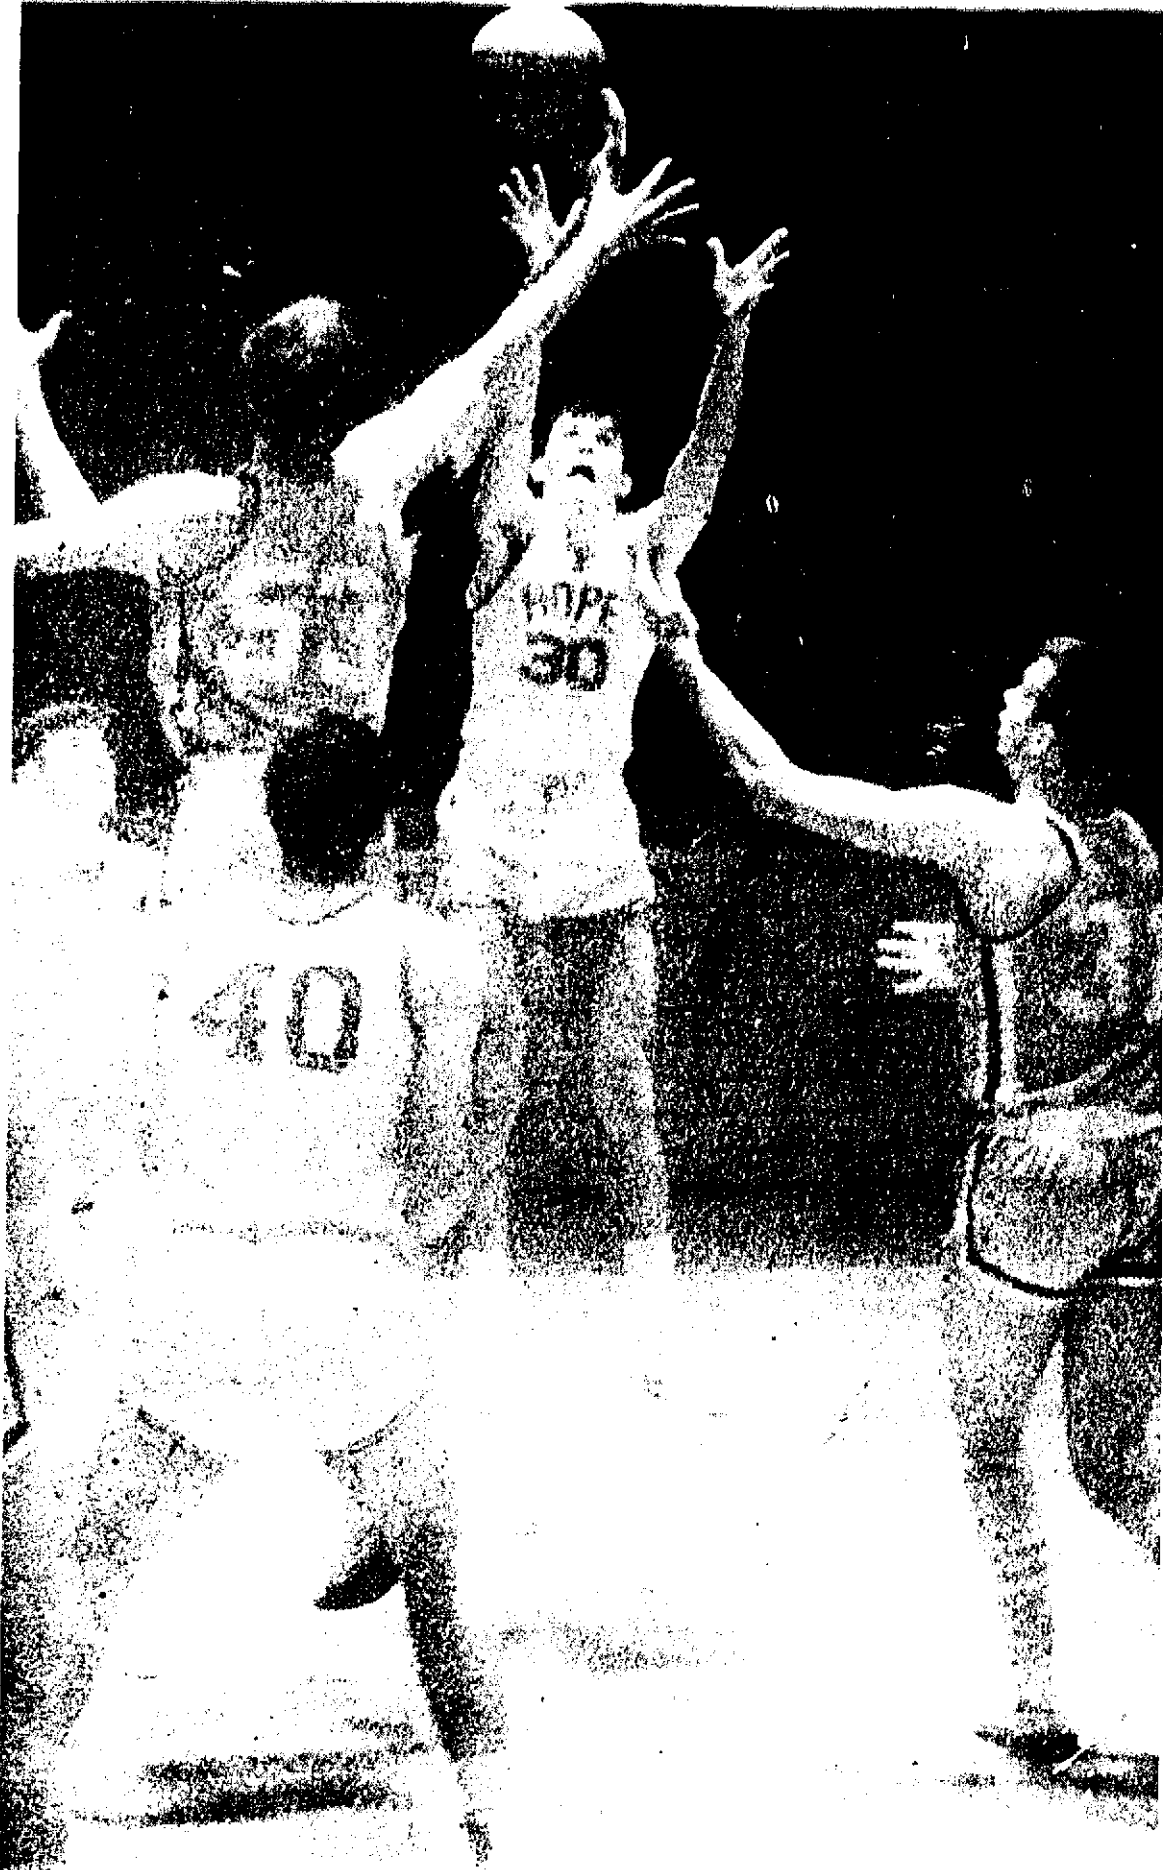

The Eagles utilized Connors as a high post pivot man and the other four teammates broke around him. They just dribbled around their big post man weaving and handling the ball away while Connors screened their guards off.

They did this until someone got a shot and Rawls got em all night. He could hardly miss as he sacked up 29 points of the winning total. He made 14 of 18 attempted field goals and went one of two from the free throw line.

The win gave the Eagles a 10-1 4AA record and placed them near entirely out of reach of anyone's hopes for the championship. It also sent Crossett's season mark to 22-4. The losses were to the Bobcats, El Dorado twice, and Drew Central of Monticello.

For Hope the out come pushed their rank down to an assured fourth place, perhaps a tie for third.

No. 33, CLARK OF ARKADDELPHIA AND No. 30, Dennis Ramsey of Hope go high in the air for the basketball. No. 40 is Hope's David Griffin and No. 31, Ron Williams of Arkadelphia. Hope edged the visitors 76 to 74.

The Bobcats play three games this week, all district.

First on Tuesday night the Cats will play a make up game with the Malvern Leopards. Then on Friday night they will host the Warren Lumberjacks before traveling to Malvern Saturday for another meeting with the Leopards.

Scoring for the Bobcats were Dennis Ramsey who chunked in 19 points, Ronni elngram who pitched in 18, Stan Parris who connected for 12, Bobby McGill who packed up 11 and Larry May who had 7.

Campbell Is Winner at Tucson

By BOB EGER
Associated Press Sports Writer

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — It took an extra cigar or two, but chunky Joe Campbell has his first pro golf tournament victory in three years.

Campbell, who usually smokes about six cigars a round of golf, puffed his way "through seven or eight" stogies Sunday as he shot a steady 70 and whipped Gene Littler in a sudden-death playoff for the $9,000 first prize in the Tucson open Golf Tournament.

Campbell finished with steady rounds of 69-70-69-70 for a 10-under-par total of 278 over the out with some of the biggest course, a wide open desert layout giant Tucson National golf greens in the country.

Littler, who shot 71-71-68-68—278 won $5,000 for second, R. H. Sikes and brothers Jay and Lionel Hebert each picked up $3,400 for their 280 finishes.

Tommy Aaron, Doug Sanders and George Archer each won $2,316 for their 281 scores.

Campbell's pay check gives him $14,945 in total 1966 money and ranks him fourth behind Arnold Palmer, Sander and Billy Casper.

Campbell started the final round of the Tucson tourney one stroke behind Jay Hebert, who shot a 65 Saturday to take the lead. Hebert faltered with a double-bogey on the 12th hole and Campbell took the lead until the 18th when he hit into a trap and bogeyed to allow Littler to catch him with a par 4.

Campbell reached the green in two on the first playoff hole, the 545-yard par-5 15th, which was picked for television purposes.

Graustark Contender for Derby

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Scratch Graustark.

The unbeaten colt, a prime early contender for the Kentucky Derby and other classics for 3-year-olds, has been injured and will not run against Buckpasser in Wednesday's $25,000 Everglades Stakes at Hialeah.

Graustark, winner of all five career starts by a minimum of tour lengths, suffered a severely bruised outside quarter of his left hind hoof during a workout on a sloppy track Saturday and was declared out of action Sunday by his owners, Mr. and Mrs. John W. Galbreath.

And it's questionable whether he'll be ready for next week's $100,000 added Flamingo Stakes, a major Derby prep.

Kim's Hubby Is Rising as Star

The Wild Blue Yonder Is Filled With Things

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Johnson—some may know Mrs. Johnson better as Kim Novak—have been married about a year now. In that time, they have actually been together only two months or so. And it doesn't look as though the future will be much better, togetherness-wise.

"But that's the nature of the business," Richard says. "It's no fun, but we have to learn to live with it."

To make their separations even more trying, there are the gossip columnists. Ordinarily, Kim and Richard find the wild rumors they report laughable.

"Mostly," he says, "they are no real problem. It gets so it rolls off our backs."

But they recognize that there is a danger in wild rumors when they are apart. To counteract the danger, they keep in constant communication. Johnson writes a letter every day—even when he was shooting "Khartoum" in Egypt—and he says he enjoys it.

"Kim," he says, "isn't as prolific a writer as I am. But she writes every day, too, even if it is only a post card."

JOHNSON, A TALL and darkly handsome Englishman, now feels that Carmel is home. Their house in Carmel is on a little promontory, surrounded on three sides by the rolling Pacific Ocean. It was Kim's retreat before their marriage; she got a bargain on it because it was badly damaged by a tidal wave—there were even huge rocks in the bathroom.

He has become so converted to the Carmel life that he is now taking an active part in a campaign against the building of an oil refinery nearby. He thinks this would damage the natural wonders of the area.

Kim and Richard are now in the process of settling in Carmel permanently. They are selling a house they have in Los Angeles—they'll rent an apartment for when they must be here—and they are building onto the Carmel property.

Among the additions is a wing which they hope will one day serve as a nursery. Until they have their own children, it will house Richard's two youngsters, by his first marriage, who will spend their summer vacation with him this year.

JOHNSON'S CAREER—admittedly, he is nowhere near Kim in star status—is moving along. He's off to Italy to do "Aura" with Rosanna Schiaffino, then goes to England for "Deadlier Than the Male" with Elke Sommer.

Basically, though, he's a classical stage actor and he hopes someday to get back to it—if he has the strength of character to do so.

"I'm in the awkward age for a classical actor," he says. "I'm too old for 'Hamlet' and too young for 'King Lear.' So I'm making movies—and making money."

But the problem is when the time comes to go back—well, one gets used to the money and we all make too much money. It is rather dicey whether you can give it up."

The money itself doesn't mean too much to him—"I don't find money in itself seductive." He says when he first started he made six pounds (about $15) a week in a repertory company in Scotland, and was very happy with it.

"But now," he says, "I must support a wife, an ex-wife, two children, three houses and four cars. I need a bit more than six pounds a week to do it."

Chemical warfare is believed to have first been atized by Benjamin Franklin tempted during the wars of was known as the Junta; this the Athenians and Spartans developed into the American between 431 and 404 B.C. Philosophical Society in 1743.

NEW YORK — (NEA) — Airplanes have not only filled the air with thousands of people, but also with mice, eggs, dogs, ducks, flowers, steaks, caviar, antiques, snakes, ice cream and igneous, metamorphic and sedimentary rocks.

Carefully hidden in the hold of practically every commercial airliner in this country is an assortment of stuff which has to be taken from point A to point B quickly and easily.

NEA Reports Business

Between Air Express, a partnership of REA Express and all 39 scheduled U.S. airlines, and the air freight services of the airlines, some 2.1 billion pounds of cargo was transported from hither to yon last year.

Although air transportation isn't exactly a new thing (Air Express was started in 1927), it never really got off the ground, so to speak, until the 1950s.

For example, in 1931, Air Express handled 9,074 items. In 1947, it shipped 3.7 million pieces. Last year, the organization made 9.2 million shipments. Emil Seerup, REA vice president in charge of Air Express, predicts a doubling of shipments in the next few years.

Despite the tremendous growth in air shipping over the last few years, Seerup and others in the industry feel that the full capabilities of air shipping are being massively under-used. Says he:

"Airplanes take off with only a small percentage of their cargo space actually used. Today, each one of the 10,000 scheduled daily passenger flights can accommodate 10,000 to 19,000 pounds of cargo."

"In addition, many airlines are adding the new, huge freighter jets to their fleets. And these monsters are capable of lifting 92,000 pounds of material. So the air freight industry has nowhere to go but up."

Railroads and truckers are not about to give up any of their business to the air without a fight, however. Up to now, groundsmen would glumly agree that perishable items might better be shipped by air, though they would point to their own refrigerated railroad cars and trucks at the same time.

Then, too, surface shipment has always been a lot cheaper.

Air Express' Seerup points out, however, that "shippers are not aware of the advantages of air shipping. For example, the cost of shipping a 20-pound package from Chicago to New York by air (including door-to-door delivery) is $6.20. By truck, it's $6.82."

Although a package can be air-shipped coast-to-coast in a matter of hours, there is

He Shouldn't Have to Tell You

by Ruth Millett
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

He may never tell you—

That you are losing the very qualities that drew him to you in the first place.

That if you didn't talk ALL of the time, you wouldn't have to accuse him of never hearing a word you say.

Millett That you have grown increasingly bossy through the years.

That it goes against the grain to hear you say, "MY house."

That the reason he doesn't tell you more about his business affairs is that you don't show much judgment about what you repeat to others.

That he wishes you were better read so that you would have something to talk about besides the children.

That your housekeeping leaves something to be desired.

That it bothers him to hear you low-rating the women who are supposed to be your dearest friends.

That when you interrupt a story he is telling to correct his facts, he could cheerfully wring your neck.

That he doesn't appreciate having you comment on his receding hairline or call attention before others to the weight he has gained.

That he wishes you would consult him more often before making decisions for the family.

That when you aren't in the car he manages to drive it perfectly well without any help.

That he sometimes gets the feeling that the children always come first with you.

He may never tell you—but if it's true you ought to be able to figure it out for yourself.

still the problem of surface transportation. Air shippers admit that this is the real difficulty.

As one industry executive points out, "It's all very nice to be able to offer a customer fast air service. But if his shipment—particularly if it's perishable—gets snarled in traffic from the airport to the office, we're not really providing superior service."

Seerup thinks that a possible solution to some of the city-airport transportation problems is the helicopter.

"Right now, in Viet Nam, we are seeing a dramatic example of the helicopter's ability to move massive loads quickly and safely," he says. "This helicopter concept may well be applied to moving material from the heart of the city to a waiting jet aircraft."

More Martins Here
Great Eastman

We carried an excellent editorial in this column Saturday which obviously was a reprint, being headlined "With Other Editors" — but the sad fact is we omitted the credit line giving the name of the newspaper from which it was taken.

The editorial was from Louis Graves' Nashville News, titled "Another Big Grab" — an attack on the proposal in Washington to wipe out the experience-rating feature of unemployment compensation, thereby penalizing the employer who has been conscientious in retaining workers when business drops off.

This column reported the first arrival of purple martins in this section to be a pair that showed up Feb. 10 at a house owned by Kenneth Cox of Fulton.

Second honors go to J. S. Draper of the Texas Eastern pumping station at Bodcaw, who telephoned me this morning that two pairs arrived at his three martin boxes Saturday, Feb. 19. But your editor's two houses are still deserted. My martins usually are the last to show up in the flight north from South America. I check the boxes every day, but if I see anything before the middle of March I'll be surprised.

And this last reminder: If you haven't cleaned out your martin boxes for the new season do so at once. Some sparrows may have built nests in them, and the odd thing about the warlike martin is that he and his mate will pass up your box cold rather than throw out an intruding sparrow.

Today's pictures of the Hope-Arkadelphia basketball game in Jones Field House Friday night were shot on America's fastest film — Eastman's emulsion No. 2475. It is four times faster than Tri-X, and the original prints were excellent, no matter how we come out with the processed screened prints in the paper — still a gamble for this newcomer to offset production.

The catch to using No. 2475 is that it is produced only in 100-foot rolls, and you have to cut it and load your own 20-shot cartridges — a darkroom job for Houdini.

News Around the World on Weekend

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The continued Viet Nam debate surged on over the weekend with these developments in the forefront:

Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., urged President Johnson to invite Viet Nam negotiations on the basis of accepting some Communists in a coalition Saigon government.

Kenny said the alternative to killing off all the Viet Cong is to admit its political arm, the National Liberation Front, to the bargaining table.

His suggestion drew a cold response from McGeorge Bundy, special assistant to President Johnson for security affairs, Undersecretary of State George Ball and Sen. George Aiken, R-Vt.

Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey at a Wellington, New Zealand, news conference, said Kennedy's proposal would amount to putting a fox in a chicken coop.

Communist China accused Secretary of State Dean Rusk of threatening the Vietnamese Chinese people with "a big war" in his Senate Foreign Relations Committee and Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., protested what he called "almost unbelievable target restrictions" for U.S. pilots in bombing North Viet Nam.

The California Democratic Council, the nation's largest volunteer political organization, gave a no-confidence vote to its president, Simon Casady, an opponent of the Viet Nam war. The vote of the Bakerfield meeting was 1,001 against Casady to 859 for him. He resigned immediately.

The Soviet government paper Izvestia sharply criticized the pro-American policies of British Prime Minister Wilson. The newspaper indicated no Wilson-Kremlin agreement is possible unless he abandons support for the United States in Viet Nam. The talk went on. In Viet Nam the war continued.

New Saturn Makes Its Bid Wed.

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The 22-story Saturn IB rocket, the most powerful built by the United States, makes its launching debut Wednesday as Project Apollo's first step on the long trip to the moon.

The rocket is to drill an unmanned Apolloship 300 miles into space and drive it back through the atmosphere at a speed up to 18,000 miles an hour.

The ballistic flight, which will last only 39 minutes, is the first of a long series of Apollo launches which must precede the landing of American astronauts on the moon by 1970.

Recovery will be attempted when the cabin section, to hold future astronauts, drops by parachute into the South Atlantic 5,300 miles southeast of Cape Kennedy.

The launch is the first of three unmanned tests for the spacecraft and the rocket before the Apollo for an 8-to-14-day earth orbital journey late this year or early 1967.

Sorensen, whose first political race was a success two years ago, announced his candidacy for the governorship Thursday.

Bitter Cold Strikes in 14 States

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Thirteen states from Maine to Montana remained in the grip of a bitter Arctic cold wave today.

For International Falls, Minn., it was the seventh consecutive day the thermometer has not risen above zero. This morning's low was 31.

The subfreezing temperatures also pushed into the Deep South while snow spread through the Ozarks. Richmond, Va., shivered in a 17-degree reading.

Bitter cold temperatures and wind-blown snow resulted in both flooding and blocked highways Sunday.

Winds up to 50 miles an hour whipped snow squalls down the Mohawk Valley, cutting visibility to zero in some places and forcing the closing of a 10-mile section of the New York Thruway between Westport, west of Syracuse, and Albany.

In Philadelphia, 10 trucks remained tied for at least 40 cars abandoned on the Schuylkill Expressway because of the heavy snow.

RFK's View on Viet Nam Is Assailed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey and Prime Minister Nguyen Ky of South Viet Nam have assailed Sen. Robert F. Kennedy's view that the Viet Cong should be offered a share of power in the Saigon government.

They said Kennedy's proposals that the United States express willingness to accept a coalition South Vietnamese government which would include Communists would not be an acceptable solution, would not lead to peace and — if adopted — could impose on the people of South Viet Nam the very forces trying to destroy them.

Humphrey said history has demonstrated that when Fascists or Communists are included in a coalition government, there is either paralysis or takeover.

Speaking to newsmen at Wellington, New Zealand, during one of his many stops on a tour of Southeast Asia and the Pacific, the vice president said to adopt Kennedy's proposals would be like putting a fox in a chicken coop.

There wouldn't be too many chickens left, he said.

"I do not believe in writing a prescription for the ills of South Viet Nam that includes a dose of arsenic," Humphrey said. Sticking to analogies, he said further that Kennedy's suggestion would be like having an arsonist in the fire department.

Ky, queried about Kennedy's suggestion in Saigon, snapped: "The so-called National Liberation Front does not berate anybody. They killed 11,000 of our troops last year and 22,000 of the innocent people in the countryside. They murdered them."

"They are 1,000 per cent Communist and they are illegal," the prime minister added, "so let's not talk about the National Liberation front any more."

Kennedy suggested Saturday that the National Liberation front political arm of the Viet Cong, must be brought to the bargaining table. To "admit them to a share of power and responsibility," the New York Democrat said, "is at the heart of a negotiated settlement."

McGeorge Bundy, special assistant to President Johnson for security affairs and an old Kennedy family friend, disagreed. Appearing Sunday on NBC's radio-television program "Meet the Press," Bundy said he did not want to comment directly on the proposals, but then added:

"I can say that the administration does not take the view that admitting the Communists to a share of the power and responsibility would be a useful or helpful step — one that would really lead to peace."

"I think our view is rather that what is needed is a sufficient degree of peace in that country and of absence of subversion and terror so there can be reasonable expression of the political feeling of the people in Viet Nam."

"We are in favor of that. We are prepared to abide by the result."

He said 170 tons of refrigeration equipment would be needed.

The company produces 200,000 pounds of milk daily. It has 12 employees and an annual payroll of $600,000.

Consolidation Moves to Be Resisted

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Officials from small school districts in Arkansas have been urged by a legislator-school superintendent to make school consolidation an issue in every political race this year.

Rep. Ole Maddox of Montgomery County stressed the point Saturday in an address to the Arkansas Rural Education Association (AREA).

The association held its organizational meeting here with more than 400 superintendents and school board members from rural districts attending.

The group organized to fight a proposed dilapidated act which would require consolidation approved to be a highlight of the than 400 students.

Maddox, a school superintendent, has been a champion of rural schools in the legislature.

He told the group that approval of the proposed act could lead, in just a matter of time, to the consolidation of districts with less than 1,000 students.

Within a few years, the same forces will be trying to abolish half the counties in the state, Maddox said.

Allies Move in on Two Fronts Against Cong

By THOMAS A. REEDY
SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — American and South Vietnamese troops moved on two fronts against a hard-core regiment of 900 to 1,000 Viet Cong today after the guerrillas rained mortar shells on U.S. Marine and Vietnamese positions during the night.

In the air, the United States lost a jet bomber and two helicopters.

The U.S. 7th Fleet destroyer Orleck joined the ground assault by blasting the coast of Quang Ngai Province with 300 rounds of five-inch shells, either wrecking or damaging more than 100 buildings in an area the Viet Cong have used for rest camps.

The air war continued in North and South Viet Nam.

Below the 17th Parallel frontier, heavy Communist ground-fire struck two B57 Canberra tactical bombers flying tight support of South Vietnamese troops closing in on 40 to 50 Viet Cong in an open area.

One of the twin-engine jets crashed with its rear fuel tank ablaze but the pilot, Capt. J. T. Stanley, 34, of New Boston, Tex., and the navigator, Capt. Henry S. Jorgensen, 36, of Lisbon, Conn., were picked up uninjured by an Army helicopter after bailing out. The other Canberra limped back to Da Nang, 45 miles south of Hue.

Lester Sitzes, president, introduced the speaker to the 70 Rotarians and guests. Dinner was served by candlelight, and each lady present received a would require consolidation approved to be a highlight of the than 400 students.

Expensive Educational Torture

The Prince and Timbertop

By BARNEY SLATER
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

MELBOURNE, Australia—(NEA)—Halfway up a mountain slope in an impossibly rugged area of the State of Victoria, the son of a millionaire merchant chops through a pile of wood.

A few hundred yards away, the son of a Bangkok factory owner hammers away at a house under construction.

A little farther down the slope, a youngster who will one day run his father's vineyards cleans out a pigsty.

And the future king of England gathers wood from the bush. You may call it beating about the bush, if you like.

If it were not for the fact that these young men also study on the side, Timbertop School might well be regarded as a royal penal colony.

Charles Philip Arthur George, Prince of Wales, Duke of Cornwall, Duke of Rothesay, Earl of Carrick, Earl of Chester, Baron of Renfrew, Lord of the Isles and Prince and Great Steward of Scotland, is now just one of the boys undergoing expensive educational torture at Australia's most exclusive school.

Soon after his arrival, the 17-year-old prince was initiated into the Timbertop regimen. His first unofficial class was a demonstration of fire-fighting equipment.

February is midsummer in Down Under country and the fire danger in bush areas is acute. So Charles has learned how to operate the fire hose.

Since the temperatures drop below freezing in the winter, and central heating is unknown at Timbertop, Charles learned the intricacies of sawing wood.

School officials point out that their prince will not be favored. Says Michael F. Hanley, a former Rhodes Scholar and rugby player who is Timbertop's headmaster:

"The school is run by a kind of rugged democracy—but the boys are firmly guided along the right lines by the masters.

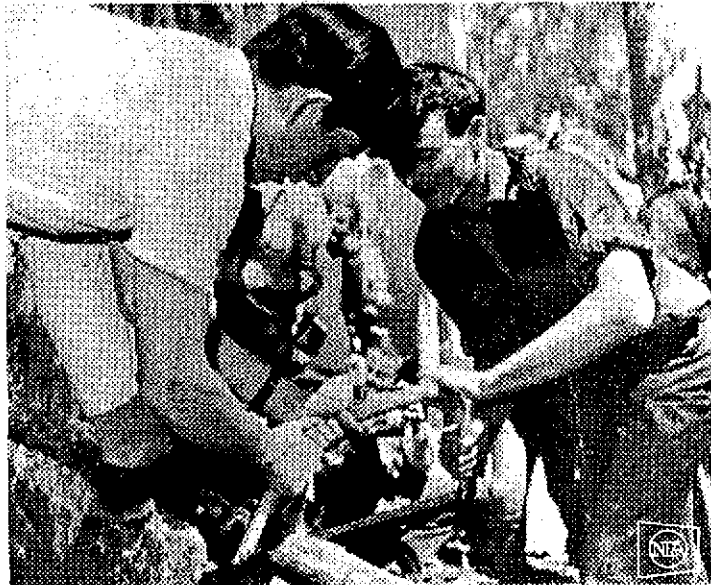

"Each two weeks the boys elect leaders who are responsible for seeing that every allocated chore is carried out. The very fact that a boy must give orders to boys of his own age—and insure that the orders are carried out—gives a boy a large feeling of responsibility."

Timbertoppers don't normally practice the typical schoolboy pranks so dear to generations of Tom Browns. They simply haven't got the time, what with floor-scrubbing, animal-feeding, wood-splitting, cooking, hiking, camping and other rugged pursuits.

On the other hand, officials point out, when Prince Charles and his classmates end their year at Timbertop, they are "physically tough, mentally alert and more aware of their responsibilities in life."

They will probably be very tired, too.

THE ROYAL TOUCH: Charles and roommate tackle a log, one of the routine chores at the school.

STROLLING THROUGH THE BUSH: Prince Charles and roommate Stewart McGregor walk in the bush country near Timbertop School.

Decorator Helps Make Boats Homey

By Aileen Snoddy
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

For every woman who hesitates to put her size nines into a 14-foot runabout there are at least 50 who are happy to hop aboard a 41- to 50-foot yacht. The latter are getting a chance to do so, according to current boat sales.

What woman wouldn't prefer a boat with a galley (kitchen) and salon (living room) with a garbage disposal, ice maker, dishwasher, stereo and television instead of a rowboat outfitted with bait bucket and a can for bailing?

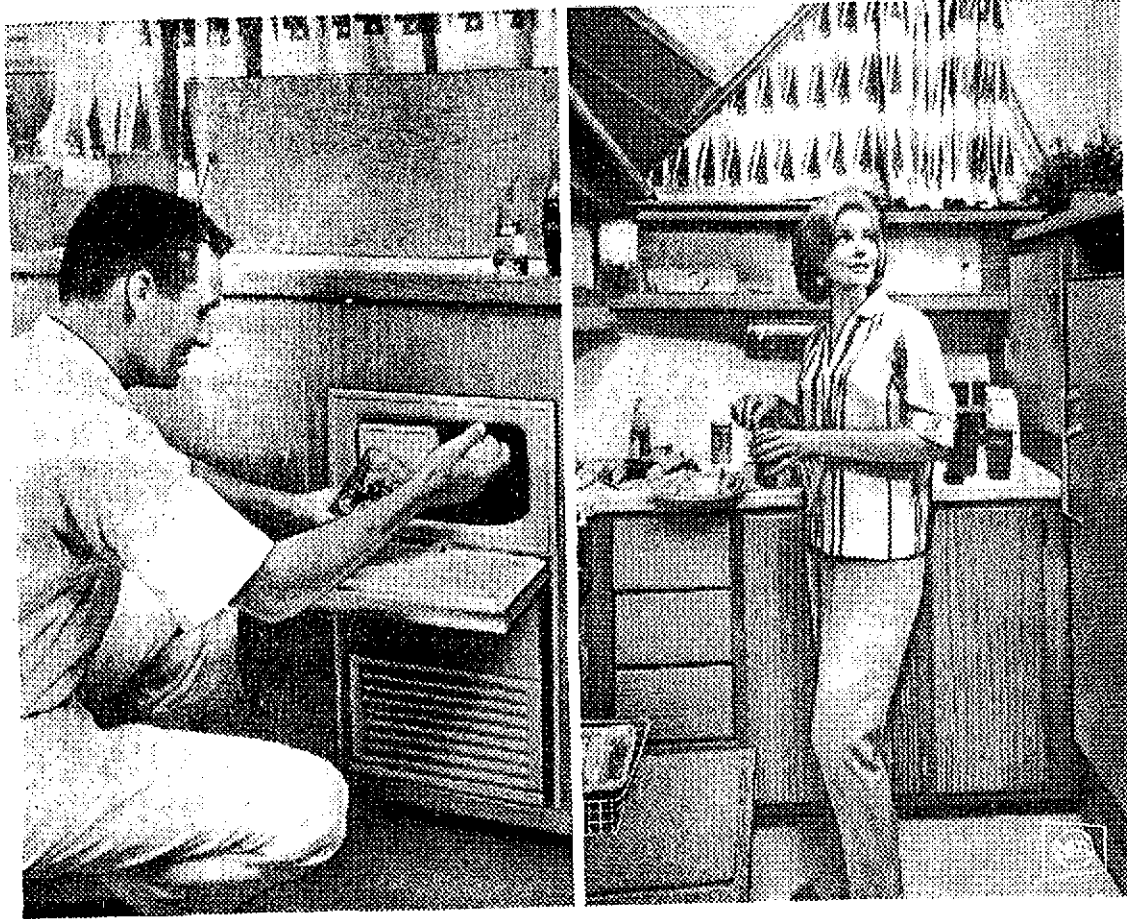

Builders of the larger boats cater to this desire for conveniences and consumers don't seem to object to the price—from $38,000 for a 41-footer to $100,000 or more for a 50-footer.

Obviously, boating decor is keeping pace with the times. At the recent 56th National Boat Show in New York City, boat lovers ordered an estimated $46.6 million worth of boats, engines and equipment.

A veteran of the boat boom, Mrs. Doris Slane, president of Skipper's Choice, Inc., says, "We are now going into the era of the two-boat family." She points out that many buy a boat now instead of a beach house or summer cottage.

Like so many women, Mrs. Slane got into the boating field through her late husband's interest. She now designs and manufactures (with three employees) draperies, slipcovers, contour sheets and shower curtains for yachts. Her business in High Point, N.C., is 250 miles from the nearest large body of water. But it began when her husband asked her to decorate one of the first Hatteras glass fiber boats about six years ago when he was the company's president.

Viewing the market objectively, Mrs. Slane says, "There

Boating has come a long way since the days of a keg of rum and barrel of bad pork. The sacrosanct sailor's galley could now be called a kitchen. Additions to pleasure boats to be seen at boat shows throughout the United States this spring include completely electric kitchens (right) with rotisseries, disposals, dishwashers, 10-cubic-foot refrigerators. Ice making machines with a bar (left) and stereo compete with the sea for passengers' attention.

(Hatteras Yacht Co.)

still is a problem of getting fabrics that are sunfast and that won't mildew. Color and design, too, are difficult to handle when decorating a boat interior," Mrs. Slane stresses the need for practical fabrics that are bright and gay but avoid dark or hot colors for boat interiors.

Many firms showed more gaudy designs at the boat show than previously but Mrs. Slane explains that boaters will be more conservative if they stick to the water colors—greens, blues and purples with some avocado and gold. "If you want to use the hotter colors—reds and oranges," she says, "just think how they will make you feel on a hot steamy day in Florida."

Although extremely soignée, black and white do not set well with the eyes and eventually the stomach when used below deck. The same is true of herringbone, hounds-tooth or any squiggly pattern that makes the eye jump.

"It is easy to go overboard when decorating and outfitting a boat," she says, "but the new boat owner needs to remember that usually you have to take the furniture out of the boat in sections to re-upholster. It can get terribly expensive."

Even with conveniences such as air conditioning and heating on today's boats, storage space is still at a premium with most boats under 50 feet. For this reason, women invited for a boating weekend are advised to "buy what you think you need and leave half at home."

Fairfield Bay Is More Than Dream

By ED SHEARER
Associated Press Writer
CLINTON, Ark. (AP)—Fairfield Bay, a proposed $20 million vacation-retirement community on Greers Ferry Lake near here, has become more than a dream for a group of Fort Smith business and professional men.

Development of the community left the drawing board this week as construction began on a boat dock, part of the first phase expected to be completed by May 1.

"We are up to that target date at the present time," says J. R. Daniels, executive vice president of Fairfield Bay, Inc., "we hope we can accomplish it."

However, we are developers and are familiar with the problems of construction," he said. "Therefore, May 1 is a tentative date."

The community will be built on the north shore of Greers Ferry Lake in Van Buren County and will occupy 4,200 acres. The incorporators have been granted a lease from the Army Engineers on a use area which is already open to the public. "We will construct a dock and use the facilities that are already there," Daniels said. Those facilities include launching ramps, picnic tables, rest rooms and barbecue pits.

The company also hopes to have a combination restaurant, a model home and streets for 250 lots constructed by May 1.

"We are firmly convinced that when you put all factors to gether, nothing in the country matches the Greers Ferry area for a vacation-retirement community of this size," said George H. Jacobus, president of Fairfield Bay, Inc.

The fishing is wonderful and in Fairfield Bay's 6 1/2 square miles, we have a large hunting reserve abounding with game," Jacobus said. "We're going to have a beautiful golf course, too."

He said the golf course would be built in holes at a time and would be of tournament caliber when completed.

Jacobus said the average homesite would cost about $2,500 and would average up to one-half acre in size.

He described the area as some of the most magnificent mountain woodland you'll find anywhere. The dimensions of the homesites, and the terrain, will vary almost constantly. All will be on paved streets served with utilities."

Jacobus said the inn would be something special. "I don't mean in terms of elegance or fine prices, but as an appealing place to eat with a menu of prepared food that the average family likes and can afford."

TIMELY QUOTES

I can see no evil in children who want to sing that God is great and thank Him for their blessings. Isn't it strange that in this country as prayer goes down, crime goes up?

—Sen. Everett Dirksen, assailing the Supreme Court school prayer decision.

I would submit there is more respect to be won in the opinion of the world by a resolute and courageous liquidation of unsound positions than in the most stubborn pursuit of extravagant or unpromising objectives.

—George F. Kennan, on United States involvement in Viet Nam.

The gravest problem before this nation, next to the war in Viet Nam, is the death and destruction, the shocking senseless carnage, that strikes daily on our highways and that takes a higher and more terrible toll each year.

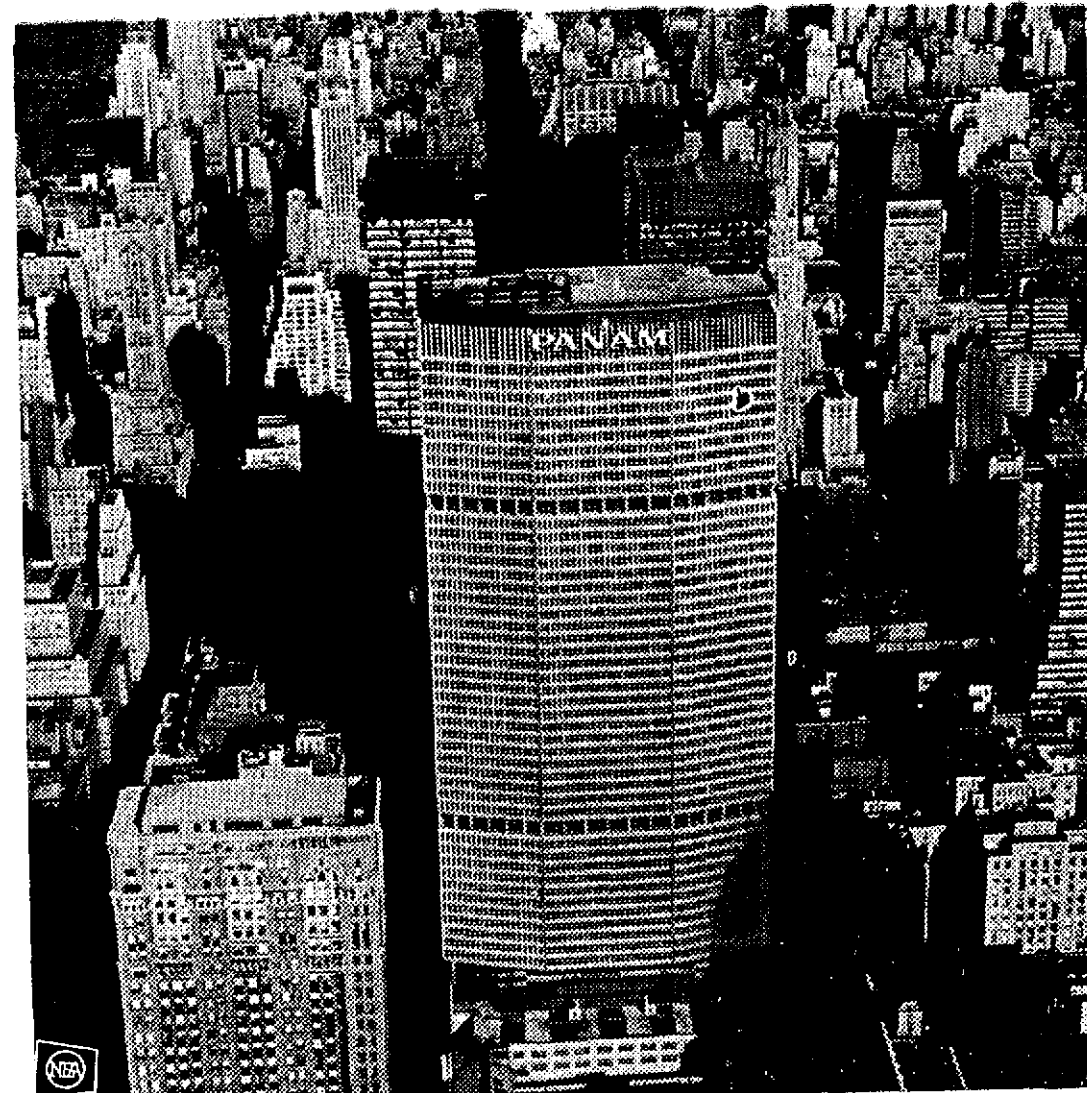

—President Johnson.

We pledge to co-operate with you in the American quest for an honorable and just peace, and we pledge not to betray those valiant sons of America who have given their lives to this sacred cause.

—Premier Ky, of South Viet Nam.

You may say that the Negro will not be susceptible to betrayal much longer, for they are rapidly flinging aside all their illusions about the good will of the white men.

—Former CORE director James Farmer.

THE VIEW FROM THE COPTER—Eastside Manhattan, with a slice of Central Park at left, stretches northward as seen from a helicopter which has just taken off from the new heliport atop the Pan American building in foreground. Service from the heliport, opened after years of controversy over possible dangers of low-level flights over the congested city, enables airline passengers to reach New York's airports in a fraction of the time required for ground transportation.

By ROBERT COCHNAR
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

NEW YORK—(NEA)—Can presidents also serve as trend-setters for men's fashions? Or more specifically, should they?

Through the years, a couple of presidents have had a certain influence on styles. Herbert Hoover's three-inch collars were once popular in Republican circles, you'll recall.

Cochnar

And the Harry Truman shirt—that impossibly loud Hawaiian-Miami Beach item—while not really accepted nationally, is now forever identified with the former Missouri haberdasher.

President Kennedy popularized the hatless look and the two-button jacket (which is still "in"). But President Johnson's favorite lid, the five-gallon sombrero, never quite attained fame east of the Mississippi River.

With the exception of Kennedy, presidents have not been regarded as fashion plates and have been inclined to favor conservative, statesmanlike garb (when a commentator calls a president "colorful," you can be sure he's not referring to the presidential wardrobe).

President Johnson, though a gaudy Texas-style dresser earlier in his career, can now be regarded as a no-nonsense member of the White House School of Understated Fashion, except, of course, when he's back at The Ranch.

And this has exposed him to the pins and needles of self-styled fashion arbiters.

The other day, John Taylor, editor of the British magazine, Tailor and Cutter, bluntly announced that the President's style of dress adds up "to a fat, round nothing."

So Sy Devore, the Hollywood tailor who specializes in iridescent fancies for The Stars, immediately rushed to Johnson's defense. Said he:

"The President dresses the way a robust, vigorous outdoorsman should dress and this is probably what bothers the British." Devore added, somewhat gratuitously, that British stylists favor the effeminate look and dislike seeing a man dress like a man.

To which Taylor replied: "This is confused thinking. If a man wants to show what sex he is, it would be better if he wore no clothes at all."

But this peevish exchange is beside the point. What the President wears and how he wears it does, after all, come under constant scrutiny. Is the effect attractive? Does it suit the presidential personality?

There is nothing wishy-washy about the Johnson wardrobe. He is a tall man and therefore selects clothing which minimizes his height. His suits are dark and he generally wears a vest. The tab collar he often wears tends to shorten the neck. He dresses, even on the most formal occasions, comfortably.

On the ranch he prefers the standard western clothing—twill trousers with matching short jacket, boots and Texas hat.

Shotgun Killings Are a Nuisance

BY DICK KLEINER
Hollywood Correspondent
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

HOLLYWOOD (NEA) James Caan took his sawed-off shotgun out and aimed it at the man with the mustache. Then he pulled the trigger, and there was a shattering noise.

The man spurted blood from his chest and crumpled to the floor. The pattern of the shotgun blast hit the wall behind him, and bits of wood flew through the air as the wall seemed to explode.

"Very good," said director Howard Hawks, and everyone breathed a tremendous sigh of relief.

This was a scene for "El Dorado," which stars John Wayne and Robert Mitchum, and it was a triumph for the special effects team headed by David Koehler.

A shotgun killing is one of the hardest scenes to rig. And it has to be done in one take, or a whole day's work is wasted.

TO BEGIN WITH, the special effects men planted nearly 100 explosive pellets in the wall behind which stuntman Bill Hickman was to stand. Each of these pellets was wired to one detonator.

Other pellets were imbedded in a leather vest Hickman wore, with a sponge rubber padding between the vest and his skin. These, too, were connected to the detonator. And they were affixed to capsules of movie blood—red paint.

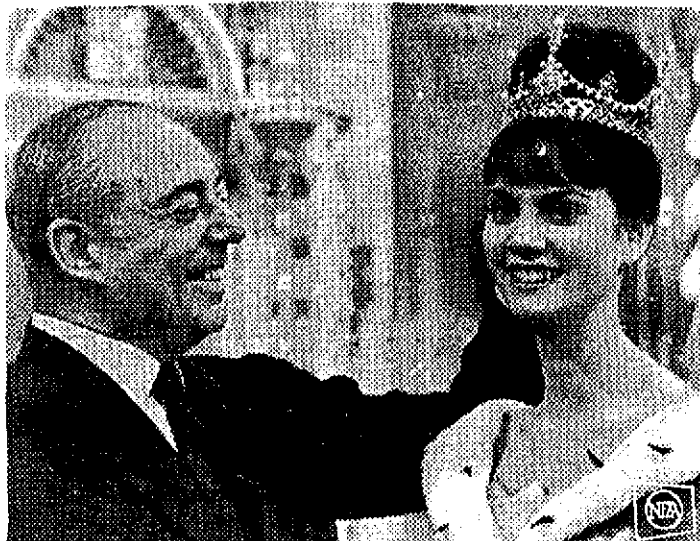

Thus, when the detonator was switched on—to synchronize with Caan pulling the trigger—all the pellets exploded. The ones in the wall shattered the wood. The ones in Hickman's vest broke open the blood capsules and the red paint streamed out.

The camera crew and all the bystanders crouched behind heavy plastic shields; but fragments of wood still showered down. I got a small bit in my hair, and so did Charlene Holt, the film's female star, who was standing next to me.

"They're ruining my saloon," Charlene said. In the film, she plays the proprietor of the Broken Heart saloon in El Dorado, Tex., in the 1870s.

After the scene was shot, Charlene went off to a soundproof room to work on her voice. She screams, all by herself, to acquire a certain huskiness she thinks is becoming.

'Cinderella'

By JOAN CROSBY
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

NEW YORK—(NEA)—Even a man as respected and successful as Richard Rodgers can get a television run-around.

Suddenly his "Cinderella" is hot. After a lush production last spring, the special with Lesley Ann Warren as the heroine, Stuart Damon as her prince, Celeste Holm as the fairy godmother, and Ginger Rogers and Walter Pidgeon as the queen and king, is to be repeated on CBS-TV on Feb. 23. Plans are for the show to be repeated annually.

But, if you have a good memory, you'll know that nine years ago the Rodgers and Hammerstein musical was originally presented on television, with Julie Andrews in the starring role.

Rodgers himself doesn't know why the show lay dormant all this time.

"When it was on originally," he said, during a conversation in his comfortable, elegant office, "it had the biggest watching audience of any television show that had been on. Later, when I asked why they didn't repeat the show, I got a crazy TV answer. 'The next one might not play to as large an audience,' they told me. So instead of 129 million people, it would be seen by 90 million."

Actually, the idea for a musical Cinderella did not originate with either Rodgers or Hammerstein. Julie Andrews and her associates came to us. They brought the idea to Oscar and me. We knew about her and loved her, so it was easy to arrange.

The second presentation of Cinderella last spring (this one in color) did originate with Rodgers.

This time I decided not to talk to the boys. I wrote a letter to William Paley (chairman of the board) and got an immediate answer, and the show was in the works the next day.

The only change made from the original Cinderella was the addition of a song, "Love-liness of Evening," sung by Prince Charming. The song was originally in "South Pacific," but had been cut out.

"I'm always hesitant to use a song I have done before. I haven't a miser's compulsion to save every note I have ever written. And old songs are not as much fun to work with as a new one."

Rodgers' output, which began with his first published songs in 1919, is so prodigious that an outline of his career takes 582 pages in a recently published Richard Rodgers Fact Book.

He expects his next venture will be a musical film, to be made in New York. As far as Broadway is concerned he says: "I am thinking a lot and seeing a lot of people. But it is all in the discussion stage. I simply will not start a project until I feel I'm right. Even if you think you are right, you can be wrong. But at least, you must be able to confirm your own opinion."

A man who is vitally interested in new, young talent, Rodgers maintains an open-door policy in his office. "There are two people here who do nothing else but audition talent. If you don't close your door, word gets around and people show up."

"It always reminds me of a George Kaufman story. Someone came to him one day to sell him stock in a gold mine. The salesman told Kaufman it wasn't one of those operations where you have to dig shafts and tunnels. The nuggets are right there on the ground," he said. And George answered, "You mean in order to get it, you have to bend over?"

Talent is around. But to find it, you have to use a little muscle and do a little work."

AT HOME ON LAND OR FOAM—It's a boat, it's a land trailer and it's a mobile home anywhere. This amphibian attracted attention at the National Recreational Vehicle Exposition in Cleveland, Ohio. In water the 29-foot-long craft is capable of 30 m.p.h. with one or two outboards. Wheels, which save cost of boat trailer, retract in water. Regulation lights for both highway and waterway use are standard equipment. It boasts galley, sleeping accommodations, both 12- and 110-volt electrical systems.

The Little City That Went Broke

By ROGER DOUGHTY
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

STRUTHERS, Ohio—(NEA)—The 16,000 people of this little city had no trouble at all understanding the bitter issues in New York's mayoral campaign.

The two cities have common problems. Civic apathy. Dirt. Pollution.

"You name the problem," says Struthers Mayor Stanley Davis, "and we've got it."

Davis and New York Mayor John Lindsay have much in common: Each is the first Republican mayor to serve his city in 20 years.

Both inherited financial messes, but Davis has gone Lindsay one step worse: Unlike New York, Struthers is flat broke.

Nobody is saying how much Struthers has in the bank, or how much it owes. But it's common knowledge in the community that the two figures aren't even close.

Firmly fastened on the smog-shrouded shore of the Mahoning River a few miles from Youngstown, Struthers is a typical factory town. The air is thick with grime. Paint and plaster peel from buildings. A stranger gets the impression that even a knight on a white charger would have trouble making this city whiter than white.

Families who have lived here for generations cannot understand how the city managed to go broke.

Davis understands all too well. Communities go broke the same way people do—by spending more money than they take in.

The city's seven councilmen, all Democrats, say something has to be done, but so far they haven't been able to see eye to eye with their new mayor.

"Too many people have been playing politics instead of working to solve the problem," said one citizen. "This mess has been building up for years."

Davis, a former councilman himself, began his new job by slicing the city budget, cutting back city services and passing the word to all departments that economy is the key to success. "I've been able to save a few thousand dollars here and there," he said, "barely enough to make a dent."

"Two things ruined us. The state and federal governments ordered us to build a sewage treatment plant in 1960 at a cost of more than $1 million. A levy was passed to pay for the plant, but there was no sewer rental fee and the city lost more than $60,000 a year on that plant alone."

Some of the sewage treated at the Struthers plant comes from Youngstown and other communities. While argument raged as to who should pick up the tab for the plant operation, Struthers sank deeper into debt.

The second crushing blow, said Davis, came in 1963 when Ohio ordered Struthers to establish a municipal court.

"The court just hasn't been able to pay its own way," Davis said. "It brings in $20,000 and costs $35,000 to operate. You figure it out."

Struthers also must shell out $175,000, after federal aid, for a new city hall and a service department garage. The old one fell apart.

Mayor Davis recently proposed a plan he said would save $65,000 a year:

"We have a private contractor pick up trash. The city pays most of the bill. Businessmen pay to have their rubbish picked up, but other residents don't. I wanted to ask the people of the city to pay for the collection for one year. That would have saved us $65,000 and we could have paid some of our bills."

The mayor's trash plan was defeated. Instead, the council voted to buy trucks and start a city sanitation force. "This will cost $45,000 a year," Davis estimated. "I vetoed the idea once, but council overrode me and now we are in the garbage business."

The worst may be yet to come. Davis is now trying to stave off a federal order that would force Struthers to build a secondary sewage plant as part of the stepped-up anti-pollution program.

"Still, if we all work together," Davis said, "I think we can find a way out of this mess."

Not everyone agrees. "I don't know who to blame," one resident said, "but a lot of people think we'd be better off if we plowed the whole town under and started from scratch."

TO KEEP YOUR TROUSERS UP

If you're addicted to vests, there's no reason why you shouldn't switch to suspenders to hold your pants up. They do a much better job than belts and they're colorful, to boot.

Resents the Holy Koran Set to Music

By ALY MAHMOUD
CAIRO (AP)—Fresh efforts to put the verses of the Holy Koran to music have spurred violent resentment at Al-azhar, one of the oldest universities in the world and the recognized intellectual capital of Islam.

Mahmoud Sherif, a leading Moslem composer, is spearheading a project to create standard melodies for the various verses of the sacred book of Islam. In the past, Moslem composers have attempted similar projects but religious opposition always has interfered.

The venture is defended on the grounds that music never contradicts Koranic teachings and that it possibly could make the verses more appealing to listeners. Sherif says Christians often chant their prayers and that this adds to the awe and sacredness prayers normally evoke.

Bakouri denounced Sherif and other composers seeking to put the Koran to music, branding them "violators of a sacred taboo."

And he said, "He who has ears to hear, let him hear."—Mark 4:9
